PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

"The human race is poorer than the bees" was an observation made by the Dalai Lama whilst talking of universal responsibility. This is what he said.....

When I consider the lack of cooperation amongst human society, I can only conclude that it stems from ignorance of our interdependent nature. I am often moved by the example of small insects such as bees. The laws of nature dictate that bees work together in order to survive. As a result, they possess an instinctive sense of responsibility.

They have no constitution, police, religion or moral training—however because of their nature they work together faithfully. There may be occasional fights, but in general the whole colony survives on the basis of mutual cooperation!

Human beings on the other hand have vast legal systems, constitutions, police forces, they have religion, remarkable intelligence, a heart with a great capacity to love. Therefore we are poorer than the bees"

At Cresmonde World School, we earnestly endeavour to build in our students a universal mindset, one where empathy, responsibility, collaboration, acceptance, diversity is in built into the entire system, so it's not just lessons, they are learning, they are instinctively being trained for a collaborative and diverse world, one where the need of the society is aligned with the needs of the world community, where they must think and decide what serves one person, must also align with the larger interest of the world.

Its Care, Collaborate, Empathies and Evolve---a growth mindset at all times that our students are learning, beyond the conventional lessons. A growth mindset teaches us to never say no to an opportunity where one learns something new, where one cultivates a new skill, where one challenges oneself, and come out stronger, and evolves into a better version of oneself.

As we come to the end of this academic year 2025–2026, I express my deep gratitude to the management, parents, students as well as teachers. This year was not without challenges, to say the least, yet we managed to do a lot, in terms of enriching ourselves with knowledge and new skills. There were many battles faced and won, a few that we lost---but we learned from them. Many new initiatives were taken up and appreciated by all stakeholders.

Our teachers worked hard this year by doing their part to build a strong foundation for our students. They persevered day in and day out, so that our students get the best educational experience at Cresmonde World School.

Our parents have been involved at every step of this journey. To our parents: Your involvement—whether through guidance at home, participation in school activities, or simply being present for your child—has made a profound difference in shaping their learning experience. Your support has strengthened the bond between home and school, creating a nurturing environment where students feel motivated to explore, grow, and thrive.

Education is just like a tree; it needs to be nurtured and watered every day with utmost care. It needs the right amount of air, water and sunlight to thrive. Nothing happens overnight. The efforts we have put in this past academic year, will bear fruit eventually. We as the school will strive for the best.

In the words of Ulysses, "I cannot rest from travel, I must ...continue to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield....

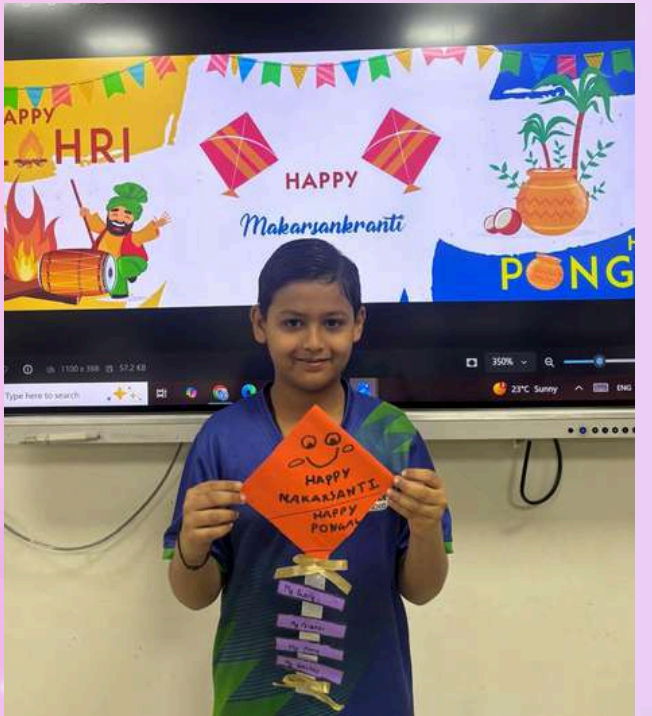

It's not too late to seek a newer world"

May the Almighty grant His Grace to each one at Cresmonde World School, as they Aspire, Achieve and Ascend!
