Dear Myself (in the future),

Trust you have had progress, achievement and success during the past 5 years! How's being a Vicenerian? Are you residing somewhere in Delaware or New Jersey, USA?

Wonder which degree I am pursuing? Hope it's Astrophysics or Data Science, or doing a dual specialization in those fields. Post this, you should pursue studies that will help you with the career of an Investment Banker.

These are a list of things that you better have completed, otherwise keep trying:

- 1)Have you got admissions to Cornell University yet? If not Cornell, then any other Ivy League is still an achievement.
- 2)Have you bought an Omega yet? Or a Panerai watch is good too.
- 3) Have you read the entire collection of Jeffery Archer by now?
- 4) Visited at least 2 Wonders of the World?
- 5) Continue to donate 5 books a year, so as to inculcate the habit and joy of reading, in someone else.
- 6) Hope the song "Hotel California" has been perfected on the Electric Guitar - without needing to see the notes.
- 7) Hopefully have built any one of the tough LEGO sets - Colosseum or The Upside Down!

Sure the tennis playing is still at 100%!

If majority of the list is completed (or maybe even more!) you should continue to follow the winner's mindset as quoted by Roger Federer " There is no way around Hard Work. Embrace it!

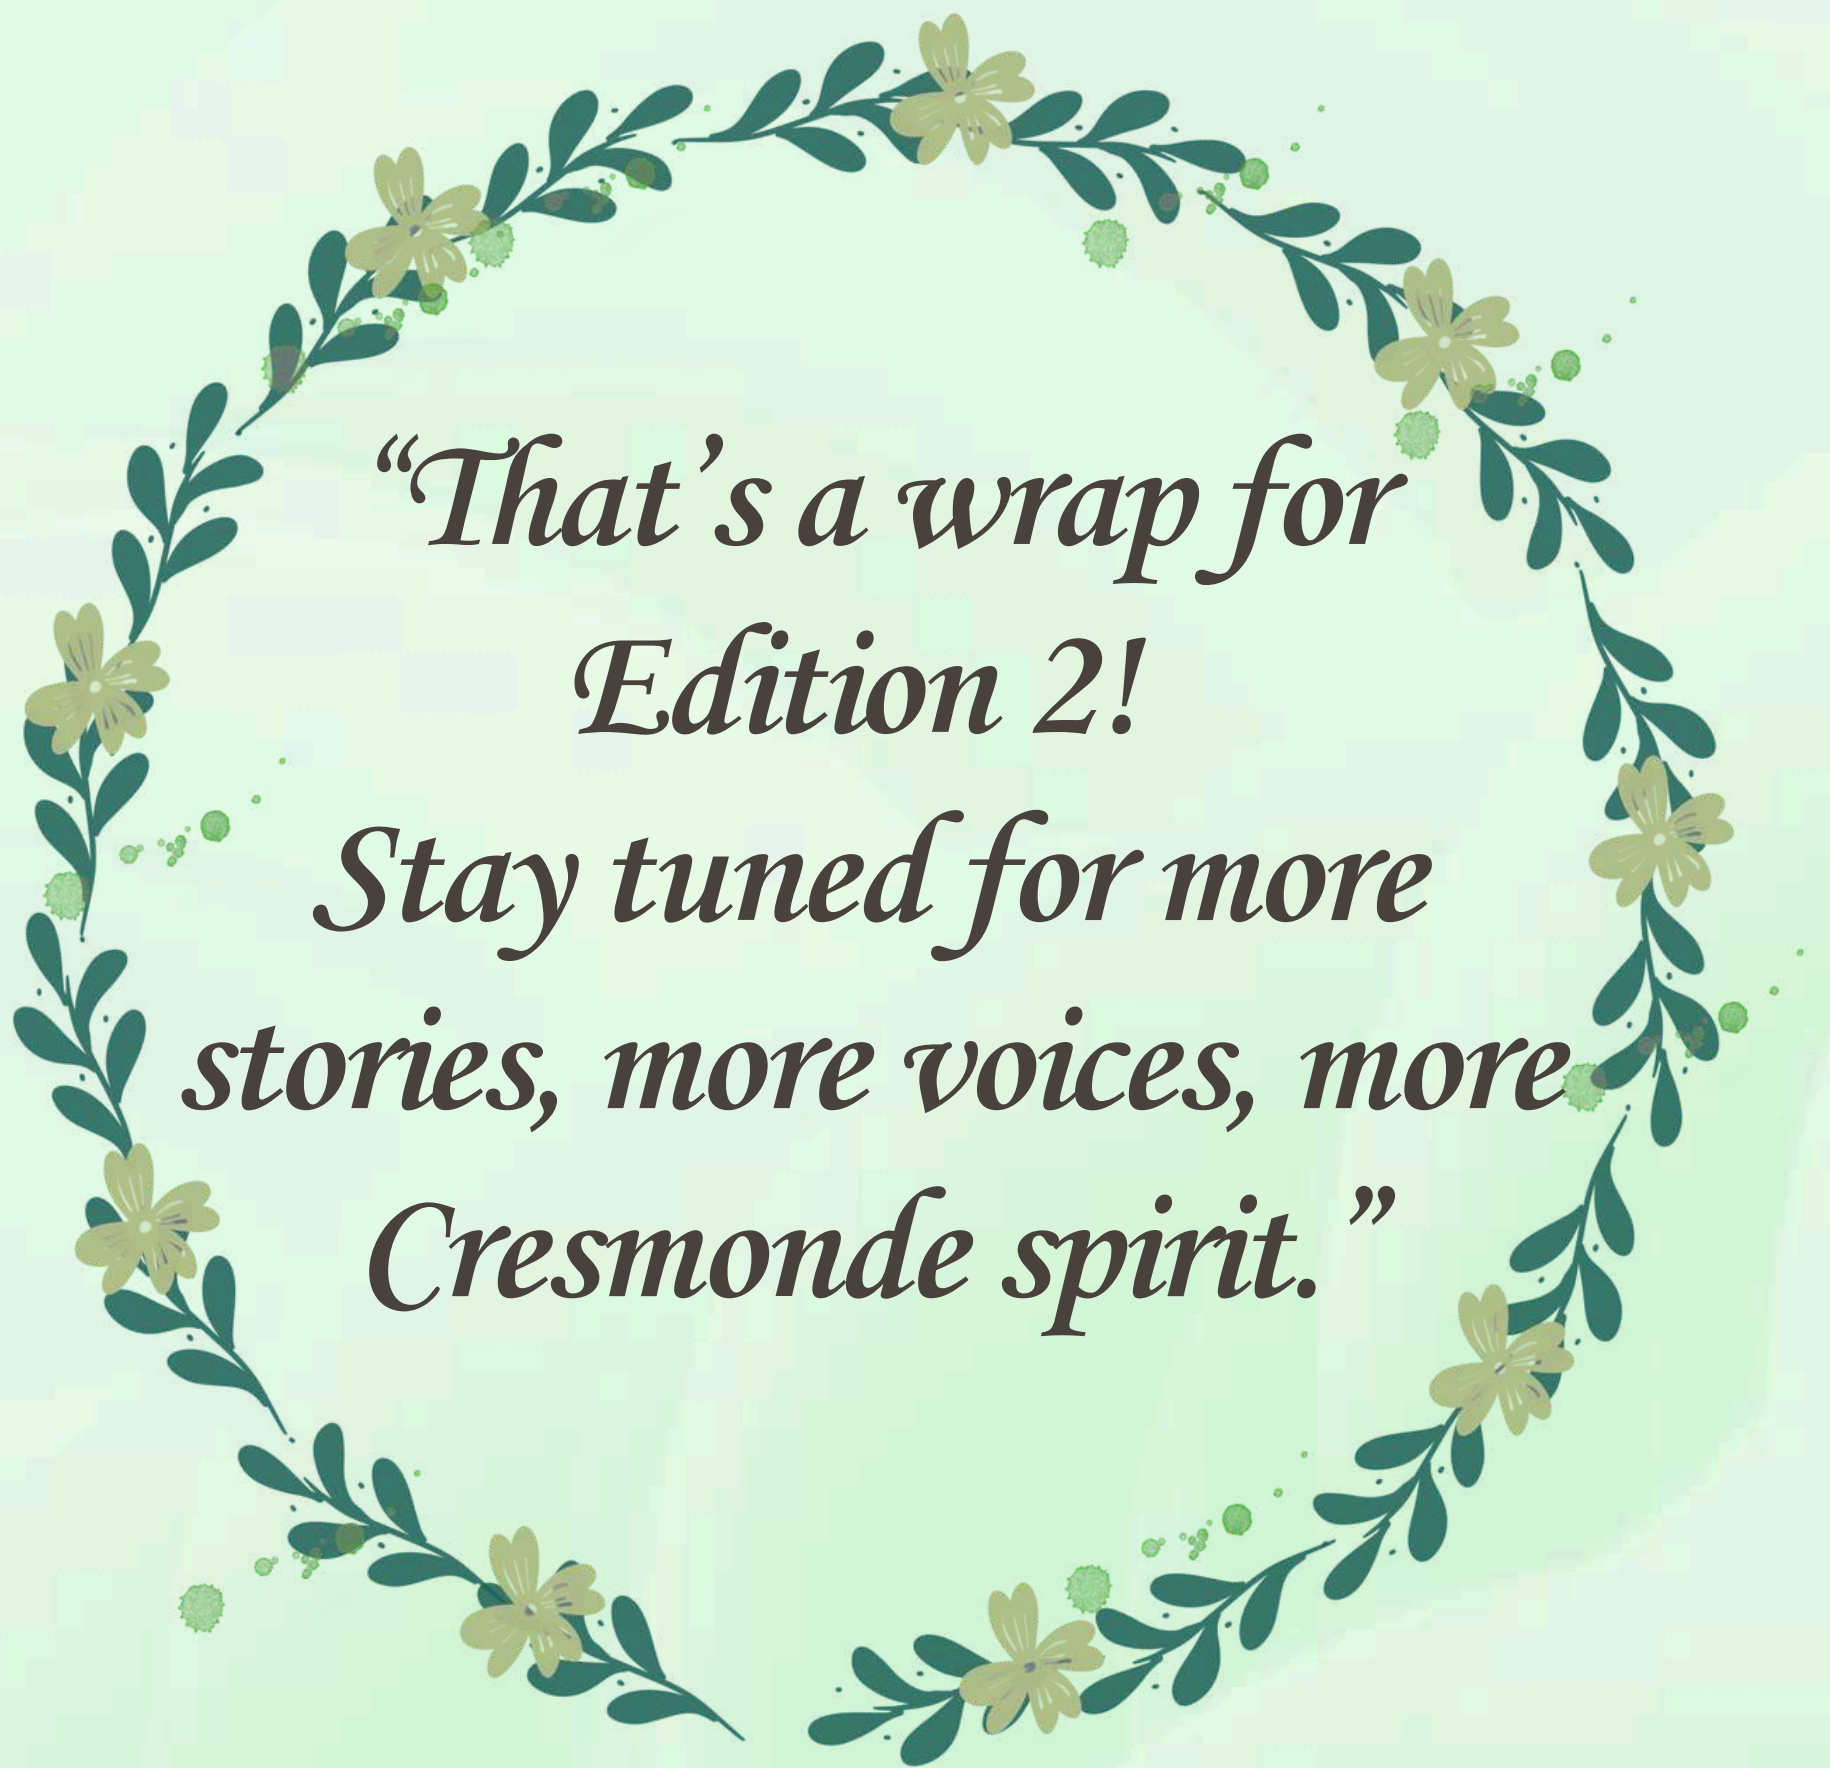

P.S.
Forgot to ask the main question: Which car are you driving!?
Hope it's a BMW 220i.

Yours truly,
Rohan Nair.
